

Penrith Agricultural Society

The Penrith Agricultural society was formed in 1833 with the Society promoting the first Penrith Show the following year. Its charitable aims are to promote the good of agriculture and livestock breeding in and around Penrith, to promote British Food & Farming in general and the drawing together of town and country for their mutual benefit.

Penrith Show

Penrith Show, held at Brougham Hall, near Penrith is regarded as one of the finest town shows in the UK attracting up to 12,000 visitors from Penrith and beyond.

Agricultural shows have always been special occasions enabling rural and urban communities to come together in competition over a wide spectrum of classes - farm livestock, arable, horses, rabbits, poultry, show jumping, industrial, horticulture and more.
